Our Washington Letter.

[Special to The Republican Journal.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 20. Maine items have been quite numerous at Washington lately for mid-summer. This is the season of the year when business lags, but a visit to Senator Burleigh's offices at the Capitol any July morning shows that a lot of Maine people are interested in legislative and departmental matters and are writing down to Washington to find out what, if anything, can be done. And even though it is a Democratic administration, a Republican Senator who is as much on the alert as Senator Burleigh is for everything that makes for the benefit of Maine people, has abundant opportunities. Then a great volume of the work of Senators and Representatives is strictly non-political and no one stops to inquire whether the man seeking to have something done is a Democrat or Republican. It is often a matter of finding how something can be done and one of Senator Burleigh's long experience in governmental business knows not only how a thing ought to be done but where to go to in getting it disposed of expeditiously.

Therefore it is, that, notwithstanding a Democratic administration, Senator Burleigh finds himself able to be of constantly larger service to his constituents. He could do more for them if Republicans were in power, as there are good reasons for believing they will be again in the course of a few years, as soon as people have a chance at the ballot again. Senator Burleigh is a good business man and he gets along well with officials of all parties in dispatching affairs. He is quite as popular with the Democrats at Washington as he was with Republicans, which is saying much. Some of his very best personal friends are Democrats. When it comes to matters of legislation at the Capitol in which he is taking an active part he works with the Democrats and the Democrats work with him and no thought is given to political differences, except in legislation that is distinctly of a political character.

Senator Burleigh has been taking up many matters of public business here of recent days. He was at the Navy Department the other day for a talk with Secretary of the Navy Daniels, in the course of which he recommended that Cyrus Dana Bishop, Acting Chief Clerk of the Department of Public Works at the Pearl Harbor Naval Station, near Honolulu, Hawaii, be promoted. Mr. Bishop was sent there from the Portsmouth Navy Yard and his tour of service expires next month, when he will be entitled to return to the States if he desires it. His superior officers in the Navy have recommended several times that he be given a promotion in order that it might be made an object for him to stay in the islands. Mr. Bishop is a native of Winthrop, Maine, his parents still being residents there. The government has been engaged for quite ten years in erecting a great naval plant at Pearl Harbor, along with other military enterprises there, which are calculated to make it the great army and navy base for the control of the Pacific ocean.

Senator Burleigh bore a hand with a number of items on the Sundry Civil appropriation bill, which has just been completed by the Senate and the House. One of these was for the making of an appropriation of $400,000 "for geologic surveys in the various portions of the United States." This work is in charge of Dr. George Otis Smith, a resident of Skowhegan, Maine. Dr. Smith has considerable survey work under way in Maine, some of it along the coast section of the State. Western members of the House caused the appropriation to be voted with the qualification that the surveys should be "of the public lands." This would have cut out practically every bit of geological survey work in the east.

There were three public building items on this appropriation bill, in which Senator Burleigh took an interest, for ever since he came to Congress, he has given special attention to the public building program for Maine. Congress has just voted $18,000 for the purchase of a site for a post office and custom house at Fort Fairfield; $190,029.54 for the completion of the post office at Bangor and $3,000 for the commencement of a post office at Gardiner. All these matters were considered some time ago in the committee on public buildings and grounds, where Senator Burleigh is an active worker and he did all he could to advance them in a legislative way. The government was first committed to the construction of a post office building at

NO MORE FOOT AGONY

IN FOUR DAYS CORNS COME OUT.
FREE BOX FOR EVERYBODY.

Everybody knows that for sore, painful, swollen feet there is nothing so good as Ezo For Feet.
But now in every package of Ezo For Feet, at drug stores, is a 10 cent package of Ezo For Corns, which is free. It costs you nothing. Use it for three nights; on the fourth night lift out the corn and throw it in the fire.
Ezo For Corns, if purchased separately, is a dime; with a 25 cent box of Ezo For Feet it is free.

Gardiner several years ago when Mr. Burleigh was a member of the House and he originated the legislation for the project.

The Federal Government pays a number of salaries in Maine for the three United States fish hatcheries located there. Five employees are provided for the fish hatchery at Green Lake Station. These include a superintendent at $1,500; foreman at $900; fish culturist at $900; and two laborers at $600, which make $4,500 in all for Green Lake. Craig Brook station receives almost as much, including $1,500 for a superintendent; $900 for a foreman; and $1,800 for three laborers at $600 each.

The largest expenditure is for the Boothbay Harbor station, which is devoted to lobster propagation. The $8,000 of government money which is paid out there annually goes as follows: Superintendent, $1,500; fish culturist, $900; engineer, $1,100; skilled laborer, $780; three fishermen at $600 each; custodian of lobster pounds at $720 and two laborers at $600 each. The government's activities at these three stations have gone far toward stocking Maine waters with edible fishes and also toward making them attractive for the sportsmen who visit the State in great numbers every year.

Senator Burleigh continues to receive many petitions from Maine people on quite a variety of legislative matters in which they are interested. There have recently come to him petitions for National Prohibition from Ripley and St. Albans, from citizens of Lincoln, Maine, and from Cumberland District Lodge, Independent Order of Good Templars. The Senator presents all these petitions in the Senate and has them referred to the judiciary committee for consideration. Many people in Maine have been displaying an interest in a bill by Senator Jones, of Washington State to prohibit the use of the mails to insurance companies transacting business in States where they are not authorized to do so. Resolutions for that bill have been received from the Penobscot county board of fire underwriters and also from Franklin county.

STOCKING STREAMS WITH TROUT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 20, 1914. Plans to completely restock all trout streams and lakes throughout the national forests of Colorado, Wyoming and South Dakota, within a period of nine years, are well under way, as the result of the approval by the federal bureau of fisheries of a plan of operation prepared by the forest service. The bureau of fisheries has promised to furnish the necessary fish fry for distribution to the various forests, the shipments of fry to be directed to railroad stations nearest the waters to be stocked so that as many streams as possible may be supplied from a central point. The planting of all fry will be performed by forest officers who will keep close check on the results of the work.

According to the estimates of the forest officers, approximately 20 million trout fry of the brook, rainbow, and black-spotted varieties will be needed to meet the requirements of all the waters adaptable to the production of trout. Of this great number the bureau of fisheries is prepared to supply something over four and a half million this year and a gradually decreasing number each successive year for a total of nine, at the end of which time it is expected that the complete restocking will have been accomplished. The estimates are said to cover 273 streams and lakes in the three States.

The restocking of national forest streams in all States where such forests are situated, including those now being acquired in the White Mountains and the southern Appalachians, will be given attention as rapidly as supplies of fish fry become available for planting purposes. The forest service is admirably organized to carry on work of this kind and does so with practically no interference with regular activities since the fish must be handled with the utmost haste and frequently during the late evening or early morning hours. The production of the existing federal and State fish hatcheries is hardly adequate to meet all demands, however, and therefore the work has to be done in installments.

What YOU Need
Perhaps YOU—like hundreds of others—are all "run down." Not sick enough to take to bed—nor miss work. But your appetite is poor—your food doesn't digest—your bowels fail to act freely.

ECHOES FROM ROCKLAND

Rockland Happenings Always Interest Our Readers.

After reading of so many people in our town who have been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, the question naturally arises: "Is this medicine equally successful in our neighboring towns?" The generous statement of this Rockland resident leaves no room for doubt on this point.

"I was taken sick and confined to my bed," says Mrs. L. C. Rollins of 602 Main St., Rockland, Me. "I doctored and when I was able to get about I found that my kidneys were in terrible shape. My mother had used Doan's Kidney Pills with the best of results, and on her advice I tried them. The first few doses helped me, and it seemed as if a heavy load had been removed from my back. I continued using Doan's Kidney Pills, and was restored to good health. I feel certain that if I had used this remedy sooner I would have been spared a great amount of suffering. I still think there is no other kidney remedy as effective as Doan's Kidney Pills. Time has not altered my high opinion of them and I recommend them whenever I have an opportunity."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Rollins had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

POLITICAL POINTS.

Can you tell why peanuts, raised in southern States, are protected by the Democratic tariff, while potatoes are admitted free? If you can tell, you will find a large audience of listeners; Maine farmers are curious to learn the cause of this rank discrimination.

The Democratic tariff reduces the tariff on hay from $4.00 to $2.00. This reduction results in a loss of $132,000 in Waldo county alone, where the annual hay crop amounts to 66,000 tons. Think what the total loss in the sixteen counties must be. It is conservative to estimate that Maine farmers will lose a million and a half dollars annually through this Democratic tariff reduction of $2.00 per ton on hay.

The Democrats told us the low tariff would decrease living expenses. It is well known that it has not done so. One interesting example of actual increase in price in an article of food is illustrated in the fact that Norway mackerel, from which the duty of $2.00 per barrel was removed, are several dollars a barrel higher than when the duty was collected. Can the Democrats win your vote with this sort of reduction in living expenses?

The Baldwin Locomotive Works has laid off 6,000 men on account of the lack of work for them; 12 beet sugar factories have closed their doors and their operatives are without work, the combined sacking capacity of the factories being 7400 tons per day; the Logan Iron Works, an industry occupying several acres at Greenpoint, N. Y. for fifty years, has shut its doors and its operatives are unsuccessfully seeking new employment. When the whole story of curtailed business and discontinued business is told, the unemployed total millions. Democratic tariff lost them their jobs.

The proposed Wilson-Bryan treaty with Columbia provides for a payment of $25,000,000 blackmail, and offers an apology for the action of a former administration, that of Theodore Roosevelt. No greater insult was ever offered an ex-president than this Wilsonian insult to Roosevelt. But this is not all—the treaty further proposes to grant the Colombians exemption from Panama tolls forever and ever. We in America were refused exemption. If the treaty is ratified, Columbia will shortly have the largest merchant marine in the world. Does this favoritism to foreign nations please you?

Great flocks of sheep were raised in Maine previous to 1894; the sheep raising industry in Maine is now hardly worthy of mention. The Democratic tariff of 1893 caused Maine wool growers to kill off their flocks and the industry has never returned to Maine with any measure of its former importance. This Maine story of 1894 is being repeated now in Oregon where sheep men are selling off their flocks rapidly. In Crook County alone four great sheep raising concerns are about to dispose of the last of their flocks. These four are the Baldwin Sheep Co., the Prineville Land and Livestock Co., the Morrow and Keenan Co., and the Malone Estate. Free Trade is not only driving wool growing industries out of the country, but it is placing the entire control of wool into foreign hands, so that soon we will be paying a double price for wool—just as soon as our own flocks are all gone. Mutton is going to be very high in this country.

Importations of potatoes into this country in July, August and September amounted to 23,827 bushels. Then the Underwood tariff act knocked off the tariff on potatoes and in October there were imported 472,052 bushels, in November, 764,929 bushels. The modern cry of "Back to the farm" is likely to change to "Abandon the farm" under the destructive action of the Democratic tariff.

President Wilson has charged that certain business interests are against him in his legislative program. The Philadelphia Ledger agrees with him. Says the Ledger: "The President is right. There are certain interests opposing the administration's legislative program. They are the solid business interests of the country, the half-starved mills, the smokeless factories, the miners out of work, the mechanics without income, the jobbers who cannot sell, the railroads that cannot buy, the corporations that find their foreign trade dwindling, the hesitant retailers, the capitalists whose money is idle—all of them are up in arms against legislating prosperity out of existence, with the country as the victim, of experimentation in academic theories."

Official figures of recent elections, pir-

maries and registrations in different parts of the country reveal sweeping Republican gains and corresponding Democratic and Progressive losses. A careful analysis of these figures, just completed, shows unmistakably the trend of political sentiment from Maine to California. The swing back to Republican victory is on. The figures show that the condition that resulted in the election of Wilson is wiped out and that the readjustment has been favorable to the Republican party in every instance. The total vote in primaries and Congressional elections was, in most cases, less than that in the Presidential election two years ago, but even in these instances the Republicans gained. In the Seventh District of New Jersey, the total vote in the Congressional election fell away forty per cent, yet the Republican gain was 98 per cent over 1912. In the Second Iowa District, the decrease in the total vote, compared with 1912, was 38 per cent, yet the Republican gain was 27 per cent. In the Senatorial primary in Pennsylvania, the total vote was forty-nine per cent less than the total vote in the Presidential election two years ago, but the Republican gain was 21 per cent. One of the most significant of the returns is that of the Minnesota election for Governor, in which the Republican gain was 203 per cent, in spite of the fact that the total vote was 27 per cent less than the vote for President in 1912.

DEVELOP MAINE MOVEMENT.

The Develop Maine Movement is in receipt of a request for information regarding Maine lands from an investment standpoint. This request comes from parties in a large city of the Middle West and indicates that the writer has reached the conclusion that Maine will be the next State to experience a business boom. Members of the Movement who want to get in touch with this "prospect" will be furnished with his address.

This request is taken to be significant because it is tangible evidence that the gossip of travelling men reflects conditions. For several years men travelling through the Middle West have been bombarded with questions about the possibilities in Maine. The campaign which followed the resubmission of the prohibitory amendment to the constitution of the State, focussed the attention of the whole country on the State for several months. The whole country was taking sides and talking about it.

A special election of a member of Congress, which brought the biggest politicians of all three parties into the State, a year ago revived interest in the State. It was talked about again. Vermont has changed to a "November State" so that Maine will be the only State in the Union from which the rest of the country can get a line on what is likely to happen in the congressional elections. Maine men visiting in other parts of the country hear a great deal about their home State on account of it.

All this serves to advertise the State. After talking politics men talk about business and business prospects and opportunities. These three events have been worth and will be worth many thousands of dollars to Maine from the standpoint of advertising alone, if the people are organized to take advantage of it.

The Develop Maine Movement offers the only agency for getting the value out of this general advertising when it bears fruit in the shape of inquiries. Every property owner, merchant, manufacturer and business man, as well as professional man and wage earner should invest one dollar and become a member of this Movement in order, not only to enjoy its advantages personally, but also to help improve business conditions in the State. The treasurer, W. E. Lawry of Augusta, is very glad to fill with mail applications for membership.

Washington Whisperings.

WASHINGTON, July 20 1914. In the past few months there has been a concerted effort on the part of certain newspapers and periodicals to make the public believe that the river and harbor appropriation bill, which has been before the Senate since June 18, is a "pork barrel" bill pure and simple, and is full of "graft," to such an extent that it ought to be beaten.

As a matter of fact, "pork barrel" legislation no more fits the river and harbor bill than it would fit the post office appropriation bill, the army bill, or the navy bill, for they all concern the whole country.

It has, however, become the fashion on the part of particular newspapers and journals of a more or less sensational character to cry "pork" when the river and harbor bill comes before Congress, with the result that many unthinking people believe that it is primarily a bill designed to assist the political ambitions of representatives and senators, when the unvarnished truth is that there is no big appropriation bill that is so free from the selfishness that prevails in legislation to a more or less degree, as this same river and harbor bill.

Many years ago river and harbor bills were passed without very scrupulous regard for reports of engineers or the merits of particular projects. Such bills were passed under suspension of the rules, without opportunity for discussion or amendment, and, naturally, resulted, in two instances at least, in well-remembered vetoes. It was under such conditions that the title of "pork barrel" bills came into use. Of late years, however, it has been the policy of the Committees of Congress dealing with the improvements of our rivers and harbors, to refer all new projects to the Corps of Engineers of the Army for recommendation as to the need and utility of every individual project, and, as a result, nothing in the way of appropriation has gone into a bill for such project unless the Engineers have given it their sanction.

It is, therefore, impossible to believe that the Corps of Engineers, jealous, as it is, of its good name before the people, would be found giving its endorsement to anything that might savor of "pork" or "graft." As General Dan C. Kingman, Chief of Engineers, tersely put it the other day, when interviewed as to the merits of the river and harbor bill: "My judgment is that there is less than one-half of one per cent of 'pork' in the river and harbor appropriation bill now pending in the Senate."

Ambrose Huntington, a farmer living near Giltner, Nebraska, is the author of as quaint a sign as you might wish to see. In front of his home he posted the following:

"I need five harvest hands for more than a month. Wages $3 per day; chicken once a day; washing, mending, and a bed in the hay mow. Every worthy young man hired will have a chance to marry one of my five pretty daughters. If he wins one of them he gets 160 acres of land thrown in. But he's got to make good in more ways than one."

It is stated that Huntington had more than a half hundred applicants. The five lucky ones were hard at work in the wheat field the other day, when it became noised about that the young ladies were preparing to leave in a day or two on an extended summer vacation in the New England States, whereupon the entire force of harvesters quit in the midst of the reaping.

In case you are a breeder of live stock, it may not be out of place for you to know that under regulations of the Department of Agriculture, you must secure two permits from the Secretary of Agriculture before you can import cattle, sheep, swine, and other ruminants from any part of the world for breeding purposes, except North America. One of these permits, upon presentation to the American Consul at the port of shipment, will entitle the specified animals to a clearance; the other will assure, subject to inspection, their reception and entry, subject to observation in quarantine at the port of entry, on the date prescribed for their arrival, or at any time during three weeks immediately following.

Cattle from Great Britain, Ireland and the Channel Islands, are held in quarantine for a period of thirty days. If from other countries, except those of North America, the quarantine period is ninety days, counting for date of shipment. Sheep and swine from any part of the world, except North America, are subject to a quarantine of fifteen days.

NEW DARK HARBOR HOUSES.

Two more summer palaces have just been completed at Dark Harbor, Islesboro. One is the property of A. J. Drexel Paul of Philadelphia, who is a member of the famous Drexel banking house and one of the Quaker City's social leaders. The structure which will be ready for occupancy this month, has cost more than $50,000. It is located on the western side of Dark Harbor adjoining the Frothingham property. Its general dimensions are 150 by 85 feet, with a brick terrace along the western side while the living and dining rooms have large covered porches. The cottage is a Dutch colonial structure of two stories with shingled roof and stucco walls. It is finished in popular and chestnut, with yellow pine floors. It contains 25 rooms and eight bathrooms. It has a complete system of electric wiring and is heated by furnace. Before the building of this cottage a crew of men were employed in disposing of a ledge roughly estimated to be about a $4,000 job, in order to make room for a luxurious flower garden.

The other cottage cost $35,000, and was built for Frederick R. Kellogg, a well-known New York lawyer, which too will be ready for occupancy this month. This cottage is 30 feet long by 50 feet in width, containing 20 rooms and has five bath rooms. It has stucco walls, and a brick porch running the entire length of the western side.

VACATION NOTES.

In July, with Boston the objective point, the boat is the thing. You may experience fog that will keep you in the saloons or the seclusion of your stateroom, but you will escape the dust that accompanies travel by train and the soft coal cinders that seem to chase you about when on deck. On a recent trip a look from the stateroom window at 4 a. m. revealed a red glow at the end of the steamer Camden's wake. The sky elsewhere was pale blue and pearly gray. Fleecy white clouds floated lazily about. The sea, gently undulating, but with unbroken surface, was of a pale lavender tint and the colors of the sea and sky softly blended with an opalescent effect.

The absence of shipping in these days is always noted by the old-time seafarer. A three-master, minus her foremast and with all sail set, was seen drifting eastward, her main and mizzen gafftopsails hoisted far above the gaffs. Then in the early morning a few fishing boats were seen seaward and a tug, the smoke from her stack going straight up, bound eastward with two barges trailing behind her. In Boston lower harbor some barges and a six-masted schooner were at anchor, and a few fishing boats were met going out to the fishing grounds.

Boston was veiled in mist, so that even the gilded dome of the State House was not visible. But soon the tall tower of the custom house, now the most prominent landmark, loomed up. The iron, or steel, construction has been completed to its full height. The Camden, although leaving Rockland an hour late was docked on schedule time, 7 a. m., and a few minutes later a taxicab landed the writer at, or rather in, the North station. Cabs seem to have disappeared; at least there were none at the wharf, and with many a turn to avoid the most congested streets the taxicab made quick time between the two points. One wonders what becomes of the cab horses, and more particularly of the veterans who drove them, and who would seem to be unfitted for other employment in these days of "psychological" business depression.

In due time a train for West Rutland was boarded and as the ride has been described in The Journal it only need be said that the chestnut trees in bloom added another charm to the landscape. Of this tree the Worcester Evening Gazette said in a recent issue:

The chestnut is among the last, if not the very last, of the flowering trees of this section. Taken by itself the individual tree in blossom has nothing of the garish and flamboyant aspect; they are modest and unassuming in flower. It is when the eye wanders, from the vantage point of some height, over acres of woodland, that the chestnuts stand out in all their beauty. With their wealth of blossom pencilled against the walls of green the lineaments and character of each tree are depicted in the full grace of branch and bough. Taken in the mass they suggest some tangle of lace work in a rich ecru. And then, too, the chestnut blossom has its odor—its perfume, mild to be sure, yet unobtrusively pungent and caught only now and then as some vagrant air wafts it across your path, but in its fleeting and evanescent nature prompting one to the thought that perhaps once in a while the mortals of this sphere are blessed with a breath from paradise.

We write this that those who have a liking for the things that make this green, flowery, rock-built earth of ours beautiful may not miss a sight of the chestnuts now at the perihelion of their period of flowering. Take a trip to the country and see them.

One cannot get far out of Boston in any direction without noticing the trees, which in some sections resemble primeval forests. All over New England there is increasing interest in planting trees. "On the road between Concord and Sunapee, N. H.," says the Youth's Companion, "there is a beautiful stretch of almost unbroken forest. A score or so of the largest pines are from two to three hundred years old and more than one hundred feet high, clear of branches for about seventy feet from the ground. There are few if any pines like this wonderful group in New England, which was so rich with them a few years ago."

"In all parts of New England," the Companion says further, "there are wonderful old elms. They stand singly in farmhouse door yards and in rows along the highways. They arch the quiet village streets and beautify the grounds of the public buildings."

Belfast has many of these elms, which give beauty and distinction to our city. The vistas on Church and High streets when these noble trees are in full foliage or when, as sometimes in winter, their branches are coated with fleecy snow or encased in ice that sparkles in the sunshine, compel the admiration of all beholders. The largest elm in the city, planted by the late James P. White, is the magnificent tree on Pearl street in rear of the Bean residence, but there are others that nearly approach it in size and beauty.

A memorial presented to the State Highway Commission of Maine last week is of interest in this connection. It asks for the aid of the commission in "the preservation of trees along such highways as come within the scope of your operations," and well says: "If we had given care to the trees that nature so lavishly bestowed upon us, your petitioners would not now be called upon to invoke your aid." This is particularly true of Northport avenue. At one place a row of elm trees that had grown up along the stone wall by the roadside was cut down, and at another place where a row of trees had been set out the tops were cut off in running a telegraph line. At other points every tree and shrub within the limits of the roadway was cut down, once by direction of the surveyor and at other times for fuel.

In Massachusetts today trees are allowed to grow up to the traveled way and at the proper time any branches which might interfere with travel are removed. In many places the trees form an archway over head, and elsewhere are so tall as to furnish a grateful shade in hot weather; and thus, with the well-made and well-kept roads, make Massachusetts an ideal place for the automobile tourist or summer sojourner.

The memorial above referred to says, truly: "In every other country but our own tree planting goes hand in hand with road building. With us, however, it has too often meant tree mutilation or destruction." And further:

Many trees, and groves, of unusual beauty, which lend their individual charm to our scenery, yet remain; and their fate it will be in your hands to determine. Wherever possible to bring these within the view of the traveler, we hope you will do so. Whenever possible to save them—even by the deviation of a contemplated straight road—we hope you will do so. Where the trees come close to the traveled road, and there are no dangerous curves, we hope you will permit them to remain.

Apart from the beauty of the trees, there is an economic value as well, in the shade they give, the protection to the road surface from blowing away, the protection afforded by their roots to the road-bed itself. Furthermore, the trees, when once destroyed, long years and money cannot replace.

From earliest childhood I was a great lover of the sea, and of maritime affairs generally, and for more than half a century my chief recreation was on the sea and shore. There was no sweeter music than that made by the water rippling under the bows of a yacht, the whistling of the wind through the rigging or the surf beating on a rocky shore. In later years, when confined most of the year within city walls, this love for salt water was intensified and vacations were spent in voyaging or yachting and at such widely different points as the Gulf of Mexico, the Potomac river and the Bay of Fundy. Of the country and its attractions I knew but little. Now my "sea dreams" have vanished and the charms of the country are paramount. The great attraction of a seascap is the kaleidoscopic changes produced by the winds, the clouds, and the sun at its different altitudes, so that the view is never monotonous. Under certain conditions I have found the same variety in a landscape. Charnock Lodge, on a hilltop in Rutland, the highest town in Massachusetts, overlooks a wide expanse of hills and valleys, with mountain tops showing above the distant horizon. Look in what direction you may the view is constantly changing. Here a passing cloud casts a deep shadow over a wooded hillside or valley; then the sun lights up the foliage or reveals cultivated areas and farm buildings. In the early morning a fog or mist steals up the deep valley on the west and produces the effect of a lake or river, with here and there a clump of trees rising above it like an island. Then the sunsets are wonderful; and sometimes a forest fire is seen in the distance. Leaving the hilltop and seated in a 1914 6-cylinder Packard car, which carries you swiftly and surely over the smooth, shaded roads through groves of chestnut trees, with occasional white birches like slim summer girls in their white gowns standing among the evergreens—past stone walls covered with wild grape vines, cozy farm houses, lakes and streams, there is a rapid succession of entrancing views that makes such a ride exhilarating and inspiring, and the saying that God made the country, man made the town, comes forcibly to mind.

In the record of a former visit mention was made of the wild berries and wild game on the Charnock Hill estate. Last year the high bush blueberries were ripe and bushes eight feet high were seen. This year the wild strawberries were unusually abundant, and at the time of which I write the raspberries were about giving out and the low bush blueberries coming in. The latter berries were the largest I have seen since the days when blueberries were most abundant on Isle au Haut and people went down the bay in schooners to gather them. As to game, deer make their home in adjacent woods, and are frequently seen in the grounds—the fawns quite fearless. Later in the season partridges will be much in evidence. Some years ago the Thayers of Lancaster and Boston brought from England some pheasants and set them free, and they have been quite plentiful in Central Massachusetts, and particularly in Worcester county. The nests are frequently found and a caller at the Lodge told of running his mowing machine over a hen pheasant, taking off some of her tail feathers and the feathers on her back, but said she flew off apparently uninjured. One would expect to hear of such things in woodlands remote from the haunts of men; but only 16 miles away is the busy, bustling city of Worcester with its 160,000 inhabitants.

Speaking of Worcester we rode into the city Wednesday afternoon and found practically all the shops, banks and business places closed, as there is a half holiday on that day. The sidewalks on the principal streets, usually as crowded as Washington street, Boston, were comparatively deserted, but autos and auto trucks, while not as numerous as at other times, were much in evidence. Stopping at a grocery store in Rutland on the way home we saw a card in the window stating that it was closed on Thursday afternoon, and the grocery store across the street is closed Wednesday afternoon. This mid-week half holiday takes the place of the Saturday half holiday, and the change is said to be satisfactory to all concerned.

In a daily paper I read the other day the obituary of a man named Hake. This is a new piscatorial surname to me. The name of a Rev. Mr. Haddock is quite familiar, and in Washington I met a young army officer named Trout, while Chubb is quite numerous. Probably there are other fish in the sea of humanity that have not come to my notice.

While the people met on a vacation trip were not talking politics to any extent it is evident that they are thinking, and advice from the primaries all over the country indicate that their thinking is resulting in a return of reason that bodes ill to the party of free trade and restricted liberties. Instead of the promised reduction in the high cost of living we have higher prices. In place of the general prosperity under Republican rule, closed mills and factories, hundreds of thousands of people out of employment and the railroads driven to economize by restricting the facilities for travel. The cry against Republican bosses, which had much to do with placing the South in the saddle at Washington, has lost its effect in view of the fact that the revolt against the old order of things has brought into the limelight the most arrogant and arbitrary bosses this country has ever known; has made the legislative branch of the national government subordinate to the executive, and President Wilson has only to bring the Supreme Court into subjection to become an absolute dictator. Secretary of State Bryan, perhaps with the aid and connivance of the man in the White House, has made this country an object of ridicule abroad and created general disgust at home. The decadence of the Progressive party, whose existence can only aid in perpetuating the present administration, seems likely to deprive it this year of the millions that launched it on the troubled sea of politics. Bird and his barrel have withdrawn from the field in Massachusetts; Perkins, whom Pinchot would proscribe, may conclude to hold on to the millions acquired through the Harvester and other trusts, and Munsey may not throw another million into the Progressive campaign fund with the exceedingly remote prospect of later becoming Ambassador to Great Britain. The political outlook at this time is certainly rosy—for the Republican party.

Worcester is a city of picturesque surroundings, of beautiful homes, of sky-scraping office buildings, of varied and thriving industries. There is evidence on every hand of substantial prosperity. To the excellent hotels it already possessed was recently added The Bancroft, named for the historian, George Bancroft, who was born in Worcester, Oct. 3, 1800. The Bancroft is said to have cost one million dollars, and is palatial and artistic in all its appointments. It has a magnificent ball room, a roof garden, cafes, etc. Costly rugs are on the floors and costly draperies at the windows. The light fixtures, designed and made in Worcester, are especially noticeable. The Bancroft, faces a public square, has a street upon each side, and all the rooms are open to sun and air.

Among the industries of Worcester are woolen mills, a factory for manufacturing looms and other machinery for cotton mills, a factory that makes all kinds of appliances for grinding and sharpening tools, the Buckeye mowing machines, the Royal Worcester Corset Co., employing 2,500 hands, the Washburn, Moen Co., a branch of the U. S. Steel Co., manufacturers of wire, the Wright Wire Co., which makes all kinds of wire work, ornamental and useful, etc. Worcester is an important distributing center and it has many large wholesale houses in the various lines, and its retail stores are equal to any in New England. From an educational point of view it is second to no city of its size. In addition to an excellent public school system it has Clark University, Worcester Academy, Holy Cross College, the Polytechnic Institute, the Highland Military school and the Worcester Trade school.

An auto ride one afternoon was somewhat interfered with by a sudden thunder and rain storm which necessitated putting up the top, and on the circuitous route homeward it was noted that the rain had descended in spots—in some places falling heavily and leaving pools of water in the road and elsewhere merely laying the dust. On reaching the hill top it was found as dry as when we left it. We got our early next morning. About 4 a. m., lightning lighted up the heavens and the thunder was loud and incessant. Then down came the rain, the drops sounding on the bungalow roof like the continuous beating of a kettle drum. An additional disturbance was the advent of a bat in the room of one of the inmates; but of that the occupant of an adjoining room knew nothing until the tale was told at the breakfast table. In the morning a northwest gale was blowing and the atmosphere was clear in every direction. The thermometer on the veranda indicated 78, but when it has been several degrees higher than that there was no sensation of heat, when sitting in the shade.

The bat, the nocturnal disturber at Charnock Lodge, is dead. He was batted out of existence with a broom the night after he had aroused the household, and his remains laid on the kitchen table the next morning—the mouse-like body and the flimsy little wings—it seemed surprising that so small a creature could create so big a disturbance. But another incident of a week's visit shows that even when "far from the madding crowd," and in a silence so profound during the night that one might hear a pin drop—a belying-pin or a coupling-pin—you are not immune from excitement. One morning the guest did not appear at breakfast time, and when called apparently did not respond. In fact, when partially aroused he did respond, but too late to be heard by the alarmed host. He was finally fully aroused by some one standing at his bedside, and then he was alarmed, fearing that some ill had befallen the household. Breakfast was a little late that morning, but all was well.

A most delightful auto ride Sunday was through the town of Gardner—recalled as the home of an old friend and a well known journalist, Edmund Hudson, for many years in Washington, D. C., and for the past ten years an editorial writer on the Hartford Times—to Winchendon, where we dined at the Toy Town Tavern. This is one of the many charming inland resorts of the Bay State, and not the least attractive. The proprietor is Martin E. Converse, the well known toy manufacturer of Winchendon, and the place is thus accurately described in an illustrated booklet: "The house is not a hotel, it is not a boarding house or a farm house, it is Toy Town Tavern. The grounds extend to Lake Watake on one side and into the unbroken forest on another. Beyond the lake is the Toy Makers village, beyond that the rolling hills and the distant grand Monadnock. A house cooled in summer by invigorating breezes from hills and forests, with none of the humidity of the lowlands, warmed in winter by modern art. Broad piazzas with extended views, surround the house. Within is the wide fire-place, where the crackle and glow of blazing hickory and birch wood contributes an old time cheer." Much more might be said of this delightful place, and of this and other rides over the well-kept, tree-shaded roads, but these Vacation Notes have already reached an undue length, and much must be left unsaid of the pleasures of this visit to the hill country of Massachusetts.

I was fortunate in making the trip to and from Boston in the steamship Camden; not because she is superior in appointments to her sister ship, the Belfast, but because of the fact that in the office were two Belfast boys, "Bob" Combs and Renworth Rogers, whose presence made the wayfarer from "down east" feel at home.

Mrs. F. A. Flanders is displaying samples of dress goods in all shades and materials, in connection with her millinery business. She also has a fine selection of new fall suitings, ready-made house dresses, rain coats and silk petticoats, and is meeting with good success.

The ice cream social held at Trinity church July 15th was well attended and the society netted $5.25. Many summer visitors attended. The society is making plans for the annual sale and entertainment, which will be held early in August, the date to be announced later.

An amusing incident occurred in this vicinity last Saturday evening, when Mr. Bailey, who arrived the morning before from Lynn, Mass., adorned himself in his bathing suit and went down to the Passagassawaukeag for an evening dip. On his return, in coming up the hill leisurely, he was met by a young man who eyed the stranger suspiciously and took the opposite side of the street in doing so. Mr. B. had no sooner passed than the young man imagined something must be wrong with the stranger, judging from his negligee attire, and he started at a breakneck speed across the bridge to summon the police. The first officer he met was Jesse Staples to whom he said: "A man has just gone over bridge hill with barely nothing on and he must be crazy." Jesse hurried over to find the "crazy man" and was told where he was seen to go, and after making a few inquiries he quieted the excited ones by telling them he was a visitor who had been in bathing. Meanwhile Mr. Bailey very calmly sat by the window and wondered why the officer in passing the house was eying it with such interest. On learning the facts he was much amused, and very grateful that he had not been "run in" as a lunatic. He has vowed he will wait till he gets back to the beach before he takes another dip, and has very carefully laid away his bathing suit.

THE NEWS OF BELFAST.

The Belfast fund for the Salem, Mass., sufferers, about $100, was forwarded yesterday. It was contributed mainly from the churches. Other contributions from the secret societies and individuals had been previously sent. The Boat and Shoe Workers Union contributed $50; Walter J. Clifford sent $9.18, the proceeds of a night's picture show, and several of the secret societies were assessed per capita by the grand officers.

SCH. HAROLD C. BEECHER LOST. In a gale July 19th on the Nova Scotia coast the schooner Harold C. Beecher of the Pendleton fleet bound from New York for Sydney, C. B., struck on the rocks off Seatarie island, and was reported breaking up the next day. The Beecher was 306 tons net, was built in Madison, Conn., in 1883, and was owned by the Pendleton Bros. of New York. For many years she was commanded by Capt. Ralph W. Patterson of this city. In the same storm the schooner Clarence H. Verner, New York for Halifax with coal, went ashore on the ledges off Cape Sable island and is a total loss. The crews of both vessels escaped.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

There will be a meeting of the Pythian Sisters at Pythian hall July 24th. All members are requested to be present at 7.30, sharp.

Twenty-three of Tarratine Tribe of Red Men were guests over Sunday of Pequot Tribe at Vinalhaven and report an enjoyable visit. They camped at Robert's Harbor.

At the last meeting of the United Order of the Golden Cross it was voted to hold a field day at Temple Heights in conjunction with the Rockland order. Knight Harold French was elected keeper of records in place of Ernest Milton, resigned. All members are requested to be present at the next meeting, July 30th.

HOW CHILDREN GROW

Children grow by nourishment—not overloaded stomachs or rich foods but qualities that are readily converted into life-sustaining blood; too often their digestive powers cannot procure these qualities from ordinary foods which result in weakness, dullness and sickness.

If your children are under-size, underweight, catch cold easily, are languid, backward, pale or frail, give them Scott's Emulsion which is pure medicinal nourishment. It sharpens the appetite, builds healthy flesh, firm muscles and active brains. Scott's is growing-food for children. Refuse alcoholic substitutes.

AGATE NICKEL-STEEL WARE

The superiority of Agate Nickel-Steel Ware over all other makes of ware utensils consists largely in the fact that the enamel is so hard and the fusing point is not reached until the nickel-steel of which the articles are formed is about ready to melt, thereby combining with the pure vitreous composition and forming a clench or perfect union which no subsequent action can destroy and which for tenacity and power to resist the action of acids is no equal.

The purity of materials used in its composition, the excellence of the workmanship, together with the finish and multiplicity of designs and shapes are such that it enjoys a world-wide reputation.

The ware is strong and durable, yet light and convenient to handle. It is DOUBLE COATED with a hard vitreous covering, presenting a smooth, highly polished and beautifully mottled gray surface, very handsome in appearance, and as easily cleaned as china. It will not rust or break like ordinary ENAMEL. It is absolutely pure and safe to use.

It is sold by all first-class dealers throughout the world and gives universal satisfaction. For sale in Belfast

STARLIGHT TOWN.

Do you know the way into Starlight Town, where you can hide from the cares that frown, forgetting the worry, forgetting the strife of the weary commotion that men call life? Where you can stand in the soft, soft light, and dream the old dreams of the best and the right?

And where beloved faces so sweetly appear, smiling so tenderly—Dear, Oh so dear.

This is the way into Starlight Town; You go from the place where the sun goes down.

Pass will Rose hedge, through Sunset lane, Past fields of clover and fields of grain; Up Twilight Hill and through Gloomings bars, And on and on by a few dim stars, Into the streets of Starlight Town— And there you can hide from the cares that frown.

Oh Starlight Town! Oh Starlight Town! One are the thorns from sorrows crown, For all the envy and malice and spite That wither men's hearts with their terrible night.

Are left in the world far behind, When on Dreamland river we sail to find The beautiful place where the sun goes down, And Twilight Hill leads to Starlight Town.

R. T. NEWELL.

Miss S. Heil has a new Ford touring car, which she will use for pleasure, keeping her old car for business purposes.

A. Simmons has bought the controlling interest in the Dirigo hall building in Searport and now controls 67 per cent of the stock.

The Western Union Telegraph office was moved Tuesday into its new quarters in the Lancaster block at the corner of High and Beaver streets.

Another lot of the popular auto baskets have been received from Bellefonte, Pa., and are on sale at the Woman's Club room in the North house, Church street.

Blueberries were in market last week, and as the berries were with currants and raspberries. The blueberry crop is reported to be in most sections, and very early.

The church of the First Parish (Unitarian) closed its doors this afternoon, Thursday, for the last time as guests of Mrs. E. S. Pitcher, for a picnic supper and the gentlemen were invited.

Among recent nominations announced by Justice of the Peace, James F. Barker, Frankfort; Justice of the Peace, Victor H. San, Frankfort; Inland Fish and Game Warden, Lawrence N. Simmons, Rockland.

The yacht Sigma, owned by Dr. Eugene S. H. Pratt, in command of Capt. H. Pratt, with a party of boys on board, was in the harbor last week. The boys are now in the boys' camp at Belgrade lake, and are having their annual cruise.

Miss S. Morey is at work on the interior and ceiling of the Mason Mills church and is using a pressed steel of a most attractive design. Mr. Morey has recently contracted to build a new house for the Bath Grain Company which will require 17,000 square feet of siding. Andrew Wilbard, formerly of Belfast, is connected with this company.

John W. Ferguson, assisted by a workman, removed a large maple tree in front of the James Durham house last Thursday. The tree was cut off but as the tree fell the main trunk struck the house between two chamber windows, making a hole through into one of the rooms. A chiffonier standing near the wall was thrown down and the house was considerably injured.

A copy of Lida Morse Staples' "An Interpretation of Metetrinck's Blue Bird," which has already received an appreciative notice in the Journal, is being circulated. It is a handsomely bound and printed little volume, of a number of copies of five hundred copies. The Library has as the gift of Mrs. Staples' sister, Miss M. Crawford.

THIRTY YEARS AGO. The Bangor Commercial at Saturday under the heading "Bangor Happening Thirty Years Ago" has the following items of local interest:

July 1. Hon. Seth L. Milliken of Belfast was in Augusta Tuesday. He called on Mr. B. Hall during the day.

George E. Brackett, Esq., editor of the Northern Sea Breeze, is in the city.

July 1. The gold cornet which was recently presented to Mr. B. Hall will be on exhibition in the window of Mann's Drug store next week.

George Ross of Vanceboro is in the city today on business connected with the great Calumet.

It is interesting to note Mr. Ross was in Bangor July 18, 1914, with Howes London Circuit, with which he holds a responsible position.

GET RID OF HUMORS AND AVOID SICKNESS

Humors in the blood cause internal derangements that affect the whole system, as well as pimples, boils and other eruptions, and are responsible for the readiness with which many people contract disease.

The tennis court at the Battery is greatly enjoyed. Monday afternoon the finals were played in an interesting tournament, when James T. Sleeper and Hoyt Hilton won from Henry H. Hilton and Master Clark.

Richard Parsons Whitman, Jr., of Campello, Mass., who is a guest at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Howes, High street, celebrated his six months birthday anniversary last Friday afternoon. Twelve little guests were invited, most of whom were present. A birthday cake with six candles, ice cream, etc., were served, and the party was a dainty and thoroughly enjoyable affair. The little folks present included Ben and Eleanor Hazeltine of Wheeling, West Va.; Faulkner Preston of Lowell, Mass.; Janet and Hugh McLellan of Concord, Mass.; Katherine E. Pineo of Havana, Cuba; Richard Chenery, Anne and Charlotte Cooper.

Belfast is one of the 46 Maine cities and towns where the postmaster's salary will be raised from July 1. Their salaries are increased by $100 a year, or more, which means that the business in their offices is on the increase. The volume of mail transactions in a community is a well nigh infallible barometer of prosperity. If the receipts for stamps is large, it means that the community is doing a pretty thriving business. On the other hand, if the receipts fall off, it indicates that business is slackening. The postmaster's salary will be reduced by the department at Washington by exactly the same rule that it is increased. Winterport also benefits by an increase.

THE BELFAST MASONIC CLUB. The certificate of organization of the Belfast Masonic Club was recorded in the Waldo County Registry of Deeds July 15th. The purposes of said corporation are to maintain suitable rooms for the use of its club members in common; the promotion among them of friendly intercourse; and such other social purposes as the club may ordain. The president is Lynwood B. Thompson; vice president, Wm. H. Hall; clerk, Clifford J. Patten; treasurer, T. Frank Parker; directors, Morris B. Slugg, James H. Howes, Ralph D. Southworth, George C. Trussell, and Frank E. Bramhall.

The concert by the Belfast Band on school-house common, Friday evening, was one of unusual merit and was listened to with close attention. The second selection, The Hungarian Comedy, and the cornet solo, Southern Sweethearts, by Mr. Arthur Welch, were highly commended by visitors. Who not stay on or near the common and join in singing the National air with which the concert closes, instead of leaving at its first strain? The following program will be rendered at the concert tomorrow, Friday, evening:

March, "On the Front Line," Rosenkrans
Vocal solo, "I Puritani," Bellini
Overture, "As the Years Roll by," Shonnon & Zimicis

Mr. Chas. Hammons, Sousa
Waltz, L'Estudiantina, Weidteufel
Popular, I'm on my way to Mandalay, by request.

March, The Occidental, Sousa
Pineapple, America, Sousa
J. Lee Patterson, Conductor.

Miss Sue M. Partridge entertained the Madisone Club and a few friends Friday from 3 to 10 o'clock in honor of Mrs. W. R. Howard of Williamstown, Mass., who is spending the summer at the Battery. The decoration scheme was in yellow, white and green; the hall was in bayberry sprays and meadowrue, the parlor in phlox, yellow marguerites and ferns, the dining room in white roses, asparagus, pansies and wood ferns. Auction was played until 6:30. The handpainted cup and saucer for the highest score was won by Mrs. Ralph D. Southworth, who presented it to Mrs. Howard as a souvenir of the occasion. Miss Amy L. Wilson assisted the hostess in serving grapefruit punch, fruit salad, sandwiches, olives, lemon foam with whipped cream, angel and sunshine cake, cheese, marmalade, Russian tea and mints. At 8 o'clock the company adjourned to the lawn, where they were joined by the gentlemen to listen to the concert by the Belfast Band on schoolhouse common.

AN OLD TELEPHONE DIRECTORY. A telephone directory dated Jan. 1, 1897, recently brought to the Journal office, contains the relatively short list of Belfast subscribers. It is interesting to notice that but 16 of the 18 names listed are in the present directory, unchanged. The list is as follows: American Express Co.; G. A. Bailey; Belfast Age; Belfast Light & Power Co.; Belfast Livery Co.; Belfast National Bank; Belfast Savings Bank; J. W. Black (Searport); Boston & Bangor S. S. Co.; E. F. Bramhall, fish market; A. C. Burgess, hardware; I. S. Burgess; G. W. Burkett, dry goods; E. R. Conner, wholesale meat; Cooper Co.; O. G. Critchett; Critchett, Sibley Co., shoe factory; R. F. Dunton; Mrs. F. R. Ellingwood; Elm City Club; C. H. Field; Field & West, Inc.; Dr. J. M. Fletcher; F. E. Freeman, veterinary; L. L. Gattner, Livery; Ginn & Field, groceries; Girls' Home; C. B. Hall, cashes, doors; E. F. Hanson; C. B. Hazzette; A. A. Howes, gro.; James H. Howes; Dr. G. C. Kilgore & Wilson, druggists; L. A. Knowlton, gro.; Legro & Spaulding Shoe Co.; Maine Central R. R.; Mathews Bros., cashes, doors; Frank B. Matthews; F. H. Mathews, fish market; B. O. Norton, meat market; S. G. Norton; Albert B. Otis; Parker & Stevens, laundry; Peoples' National Bank; J. H. Quimby; Republican Journal; Revere House; L. T. Shales, wholesale gro.; A. C. Sibley; E. F. Staples, (Stockton); P. S. Staples, meat market; R. P. Stickney, stores; Swan & Sibley Co., flour, grain; Swift & Paul, gro.; Thompson & Chapman, hotel, (Northport); W. U. Telegraph office; F. G. White, coal; Windsor Hotel.

MISS ANNIE L. BARR, librarian of the Belfast Free Library, and Grace H. Hall, assistant, are in New York attending the summer school at Columbia University. Misses E. Frances Abbott and Evelyn A. Richards are taking their places in the library.

AT CAMP QUANTABOOK. Mrs. Orris S. Vickery was the hostess at her camp at Quantabook July 20th of the Monday Auction Club, of which she is a member. William E. Kotman of Northport and Miss Ada Mitchell of New York, the guest of Mrs. Clement W. Wescott, substituted for absent members. They autored to the Lake in the morning, took lunch at the Vickery cottage, and later joined the boys and their teachers in the rest hour at the Lodge and greatly enjoyed the music, all joining in singing the familiar songs. The visitors brought home souvenir cards of the camps and grounds as pleasant reminders of a happy day. The ladies played a sail on the lake, and auction was enjoyed in the afternoon. Mrs. S. A. Parker winning the first prize, a pack of cards, and Miss Mitchell receiving the consolation, a potted fern.

A BIRTHDAY OBSERVANCE. Monday, July 20th, was the 80th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Elizabeth E. Knowlton, No. 16 Miller street, and her family and relatives made the day and evening replete with pleasant surprises. The happy mother was the recipient of beautiful gifts from her children, and received many dainty gifts and cards from others. Mrs. Charles P. Hazeltine gave a family dinner party and the table was graced with a beautiful birthday cake. Mrs. G. S. Pendleton gave an informal lunch in Mrs. Knowlton's honor at the Woman's Club room at 6 o'clock, followed by a social hour, with music, at her rooms on High street. The great surprise of the day of surprise came when Mrs. Knowlton returned home to find that her housekeeper, Miss Ella Frye, had made arrangements for a happy "At Home." There were lovely floral gifts to grace the attractive home, the dining table held home-made confectionery, punch, and held home-made cakes, one of the gift of a friend and the other was the handiwork of Miss Frye who had placed on it a candle for each of her well spent years. It was a case of bringing happiness to one who radiates happiness to all. In response to the Journal's appeal for particulars of this happy birthday Mrs. Knowlton requested that as little be said as possible, or a more extended notice would have been written.

You have noticed that the Pearl Brook & 5 and 10 cents cigars are darker than other cigars. That means quality. Imported clear Havana cigars are dark but mild and aromatic. Try one and be convinced. Made from Cuban tobacco grown in Maine.

HOSPITAL NOTES. Mrs. John Cuzner returned to Northport Monday after having surgical treatment at the hospital. Mrs. James Portell of Searport is at the hospital for treatment. A son arrived on Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. John Frame of Searport and both mother and son are doing well. Mrs. Harvey Willey of Clinton, Maine, is at the hospital for surgical treatment. Mrs. Franklin Warren returned to her home in Belfast Sunday after an operation at the hospital. Mrs. Alice Waldron, who has been at the hospital following an accident some time ago, returned to her home in Searport last week. Mrs. Josselyn, assistant superintendent, spent Sunday at the Hurd farm, Northport.

Parker L. Hardison, assistant engineer in charge of State aid of the State highway department, recently sent out letters to inspectors on State aid highways calling attention to the fact that complaints are being made about the damage which the blasts are doing to the telephone lines, and requesting the inspectors to properly cover the blasts. The letters read as follows: "We are receiving complaints that damage is being done to the telephone lines on account of blasting on the State road work. This is not only a serious matter to the telephone company but to the public as well. Kindly call the attention of all of the towns in your district which have blasting to be done, requesting them to be very careful to properly cover their blasts when underneath telephone lines."

GUARANTEE

The value of a guarantee is not what is said but who says it.

We positively guarantee each and every job that we do to be of the highest standard and quality in material and workmanship. We stand ready to cheerfully make good this, the strongest guarantee that any one can give.

We are always ready to figure with customers, no matter how small or large the job may be. Tel. 14-11

JONES & SNOW,

Plumbing and Heating, No. 60 High Street

There will be a public entertainment in Dirigo hall, Searport, July 30th, to raise funds for the town's centennial celebration, to be observed August 11th. Messrs. Ralph I. Morse, Arthur F. Johnson, John Parker and E. S. Pitcher of Belfast will assist in the music.

Herbert R. Conforth of Thorndike, Maine who was driven on a few hours' notice from Guadalajara, where he was engaged in the wholesale drug and electrical business, claims that his losses aggregate $88,000, and his claim has been filed with W. B. Davis, consul at Guadalajara. Conforth and others fled from Guadalajara by order of the State department and the governor of Guadalajara.

Fourteen members of the fire department were entertained by Horace Cheney last Sunday at his log cabin at Tilden's pond. All sorts of sports, including boating, a ball game and other athletics, were enjoyed, and the baked bean dinner, cooked in the famous bean-hole in the ground, was a special feature. Mr. Cheney entertains the firemen every year at his camp, and it is an event which is always anticipated with much pleasure.

Mr. E. R. Pierce has sold his lot on High street, the site of his residence burned a year or two ago, to Herman H. Coombs of the H. H. Coombs Co., who will build a house there next season. Mr. Coombs came to Belfast from Leesboro and after spending some years in the drug store of Poor & Son went to Aroostook county, where he was engaged in the dry and fancy goods business. Returning to Belfast a few years ago he established a dry goods and millinery business in Masonic Temple, in which he is assisted by his wife, formerly Miss Belle Greenlaw, an experienced milliner. Both are popular; they are doing a successful business, and that they are to add another to Belfast's many attractive homes is cause for congratulation.

THE BATTERY CONCERTS. Every Sunday evening at the Battery all are invited to assemble at the Hilton home to listen to an impromptu concert. Last Sunday there were fifty-five present and a concert of musical merit was given. Hymns were sung, with Frank Sleeper accompanying, before and after the special numbers. The program included a tenor solo by Allen Sleeper of Detroit, Mich.; violin solo by Katherine Hilton and a piano solo by little Charlotte Hilton, both of Chicago; a vocal solo by Master Willis Patten of the Episcopal church; a cello solo by Mrs. James T. Sleeper; a bass solo by E. S. Pitcher and a contralto solo by Mrs. E. S. Pitcher. Mrs. Wm. W. Sleeper frequently reads at the Episcopal church; and Mrs. Elton B. Gilchrist and Miss Helen Sleeper render piano duets and solos. For so small a colony the musical talent is remarkable.

The editor of The Journal returned last Tuesday morning from a week's vacation and found a number of personal letters received during his absence that will receive attention as soon as possible.

Frank R. Woodcock has removed the wall paper rack in the rear of the store and put the paper on the second floor, to give room for a Goldburg picture display fixture. The rack has 10 wings, 7 by 4 feet, covered with green burlap. It is a great improvement to this attractive store.

The civil service examination for fourth class postmasters of Maine was given July 15th. Fred W. Brown conducted the examination in Belfast, 14, including two women, took the test, coming from West Brooksville, Morrill, Northport, Lincolnville, Center Lincolnville, Troy, Burnham, Unity and Liberty.

Mrs. Irving L. Perry, who, with her daughter Marian is spending the week at the Connor-Morse cottage at Bayside, will entertain the Hit or Miss club this, Thursday, afternoon. A picnic dinner and supper will be served and a good time is assured as Mrs. Perry has substituted frequently in the club.

List of letters remaining uncalled for in the post office for the week ending July 21st: Ladies—Miss Agnes Jackson, Mrs. Etta Miller, Mrs. Frank E. Miller, Etta Robertson, Miss Sadie Simmons, Mrs. Eva L. Wentworth, Mrs. Al-mira Webber. Gentlemen—Clarence Larabee, Roland Robbins.

FROM SUBSCRIBERS. A Massachusetts subscriber writes "Glad to read the sound letters of Frank W. Gowen on the tariff and on temperance subjects. He is as sound as a nut on the above." From California comes the following: "Allow me to say, as I have said before, that no other paper or magazine coming to my office is so much appreciated and enjoyed as The Journal. Each week it is like getting a letter from home."

The following item from a Soo City, Mich., paper of recent date is of interest in Belfast as the groom is a Belfast boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman O. Roberts: "Judge Rock D. Frederick performed his second marriage ceremony yesterday when he united in marriage Miss Mary Berden and William Wentworth Roberts, both of Soo, at his office in city hall. The bride was supported by her mother, Mrs. Edith Berden, while Justice Clerk George Clayton Sayers supported the groom."

The steamer Golden Rod will make an excursion to Bangor next Sunday, leaving Lewis' wharf at 8:30 a. m., arriving at Bangor at 11:45 a. m. Returning, will leave Bangor at 4 p. m., arriving home at 7:15 p. m. Parties wishing to stop off at any landing may do so on request. There will be a fair tide both ways, and if you do not know it now, you may take our word for it that a sail up the river at this season is delightful. Fare for the round trip 75 cents. Ice cream and lemonade served on the boat.

THE REPUBLICAN CLUB. There was a large and interested gathering at the Republican Club room last Monday evening to meet Judge Benj. W. Blanchard of Bangor and to organize a Republican club. H. C. Buzzell was elected president; Ralph D. Southworth, secretary; James H. Howes, William K. Keene, V. A. Simmons, Clement W. Wescott and Charles R. Coombs directors. There will be no dues and the room will be open day and night until the September election, and all Republicans and those who wish to affiliate with the party are urged to come to the room. Judge Blanchard spoke of clubs and of the urgent needs of such organizations and then discussed many of the issues of the day. He gave a strong encouraging talk and had the close attention of his hearers.

A SUDDEN DEATH. Charles Gardner of Tenants Harbor, afterdeck watchman of the steamer Camden, died suddenly of heart disease on board the steamer at 10:30 Monday night on the passage from Boston to Bangor. Mr. Gardner went off watch at 10 o'clock and was in his room when, at 10:25, he began to suffer severe pains in the region of the heart. In five minutes he expired. The body was taken ashore at Rockland, where it was received by relatives. The deceased had been in the service of the Eastern S. S. Corporation for ten years and was a faithful and competent man. He was about 50 years of age. When the Camden came into this port Tuesday her colors were at half mast in respect to the dead watchman.

While the Western Union linemen were changing the wires from the Central Telephone office to their new quarters in the Lancaster block, High street, Monday afternoon, they left a loop on Church street near the court-house. Mrs. Frances Howes Whitman, Mrs. Elizabeth Quimby Pineo and the Misses Katherine C. Quimby and Margaret O. White were driving in the Howes team on Church street and came in contact with the wire. Mrs. Whitman saw the wire in time to clear the horse and herself, but it caught Mrs. Pineo under the chin and bruised the skin; Miss Quimby was thrown to the street and Miss White was pushed over the back of the seat and her shirt-waist was torn. Naturally all were more or less frightened and their escape from greater injury was fortunate.

KEEPING FOOD IN SUMMER.

Valuable Suggestions for Housewives During the Hot Months.

The Department of Agriculture issues the following practical suggestions in regard to keeping food and drink in hot weather, with a view to helping the public to avoid sickness from eating spoiled articles of diet:

"While people should be careful about the condition of the food they eat at all seasons of the year, they should be particularly watchful during the summer months. In hot weather, bacteria multiply far more rapidly than in cold weather and produce chemical changes in some foods which greatly lessen their nutritive value and often make them unfit for human consumption. Unfortunately, there is no quick, absolute, simple, practical way of determining the presence of harmful bacteria in foods, or of obtaining positive evidence of the existence of poisons. The average family does not have the delicate apparatus needed for these tests, nor the skill to detect these micro-organisms.

The housewife will find eyes and nose the safest practical detectors of bad food in hot weather. If any article has any suspicion of an unusual odor or looks abnormal, it should be avoided. People eating in doubtful restaurants should be particularly careful about meats or fish cooked with a highly spiced or aromatic sauce, which might disguise a bad taste or warning odor. Only sweet smelling, clean food should be eaten. Spiced, green, slimy or frothy raw meat, or meat which is soft in spots should be regarded with suspicion. Taste of course is a supplementary test, but one to be used after eyes and nose. A mother before she allows her child to eat anything should examine it carefully in a good light, smell it, and finally taste it.

"Milk particularly deteriorates rapidly under summer heat, especially if it already contains bacteria. Housewives, therefore, should see to it that their milk after being left by the milkman does not stand for any length of time on a hot porch or stoop before it is put in the ice-box. Milk bottles should be kept closed, both in the ice box and out of it. If there is any doubt at all as to the excellence of the local milk supply, pasteurize all milk.

"All foods should be kept covered or wrapped, and always out of the reach of flies, which are deadly carriers of typhoid. All vessels, pitchers, etc., in which food is to be stored, should first be washed. Food should be handled as little as possible. The ice box, especially its drain pipe, should be cleaned thoroughly and frequently with boiling water and washing soda, and given an occasional airing. A persistent battle should be waged against flies in all parts of the home.

"Uncooked foods as a general proposition should be avoided. Children should not be allowed to eat the skins of fruits, especially flies or street dirt on unscreened stands or push-carts. "Those who go away for vacation should not get the idea that everything in a summer resort or strange city is very pure and wholesome. The danger of typhoid fever in country resorts is very great. Many of the cases of typhoid fever recorded in the fall in cities where the water is pure, had their origin in water or contaminated substances drunk or eaten at some summer resort. Insist on boiled water. If you absolutely cannot get boiled water, make very sure about reputation of springs, well or tap water. Refuse absolutely to take any water that comes from a source near an out-house or stable, or in a neighborhood where fever is at all prevalent. "Boiled water can be made just as palatable as unboiled water. The flat taste which boiled water has soon after it is boiled is due to the fact that boiling drives out of it the air which it held in solution. If water after boiling is put in scalded shallow open pans and allowed to stand for 24 hours where flies or dirt cannot get at it, it will regain its air and have its usual taste restored by the second day.

"Finally it is particularly important in summer that people should not be misled into believing that the label 'Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act' on cans and packages means that the government has tested these foods and pronounced them pure and desirable. The government does not make the guarantee. The guarantee is made wholly by the manufacturer, and means no more than when your own corner grocer guarantees that the sugar he weighs out for you is all right. Examine goods labeled 'guaranteed' just as carefully as any other kind."

THE HIGHWAY LAW.

The new Maine highway law passed the last legislature is a non-partisan measure. The law provides for a perfected highway system of the most approved and satisfactory kind, and was painstakingly drafted after consultation with the best engineers in America, representatives of the automobile associations, representatives of the Farmers of the State, and all others vitally interested. The plan is essentially that of old Rome, whose road system has never been surpassed nor even equalled, and follows closely the adopted systems of modern Germany and England. The work now being planned and contracted for in all the counties in Maine is being carried on under the provisions of this law, the law of the people which was approved by the legislature and passed as a non-partisan measure. The system is complicated and it is not possible to understand it without careful study and for that reason Democrats unfriendly to the administration are attempting to arouse jealousies through this law and its operation. Remember the law is one of the best laws of your State, one of your laws. When you hear a man knocking the laws, ask him who his authority is and you will find he knows nothing about it.

HOT WEATHER RULES.

1. Load lightly, and drive slowly.
2. Stop in the shade if possible.
3. Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, water in moderate quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still. Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his hay.
4. When he comes in after work, sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose and mouth, and the dock. Wash his feet but not his legs.
5. If the thermometer is 75 degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a wet sponge. Use vinegar if possible. Do not turn the hose on him.
6. Saturday night, give a bran mash, cold; and add a tablespoonful of salt-petre.
7. Do not use a horse-hat, unless it is a canopy-top hat. The ordinary bell-shaped hat does more harm than good.
8. A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry, it is worse than nothing.
9. If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs and give him four ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre, in a pint of water; or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.
10. If the horse is off his feed, try him with two quarts of oats mixed with bran, and a little water; and add a little salt or sugar. Or give him oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.
11. Watch your horse. If he stops sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or if he stands with his legs braced sideways, he is in danger of a heat or sun stroke and needs attention at once.
12. If it is so hot that the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside. Unless he cools off during the night, he cannot well stand the next day's heat.

These rules are prepared by the Boston Work Horse Relief Association, whose office is at 15 Beacon street, Boston, Mass. Copies of the rules will be sent free on application. Our office is open throughout the year.

THE DISAPPOINTING DOLOMITES.

Writing of her recent motor-trip through the Dolomites in Harper's Magazine for August, Louise Closser Hale tells amusingly of her disappointment in finding the mountains quite unlike the gay pictures on the brilliantly colored postal cards.

"The Illustrator took a hand from the wheel to wave toward them with all the enthusiasm of personal discovery. Gazing at them, Rabby and I dwelt bitterly on the false prophesies of colored postal cards. Nature has been referred to as a lavish creature, but her tints are pale as compared to the glowing replicas on the cartes postales.

"Madame, where is the red on your cheeks? So Bonaparte once admonished a court lady, accustomed as he was to Josephine's rouge-spots. And 'Mountain, why aren't you pink?' we severely apostrophized the soft blue peaks. "Our driver glared back at us fleetly. He possesses a maddening quality of adopting as his own the country through which he is passing, and resents reflection upon its appearance or character as a slight that embodies him. 'They are pink,' he asserted, doggedly. 'It's just the way you quaint.'

"I reflected upon this, then, and many times during the next few days of frantic pass-climbing into which I had been cunningly lured. Squinting couleur de rose into his life is part of his happy philosophy, and I have no doubt that he squinted himself into believing all the sophistries which he propounded daily to tease me through the lengths and heights and depths of Tyrol."

PITTSFIELD PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Libby and Mrs. Alice Leavitt left Monday for a two weeks' visit in Stockton Springs with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Staples. They made the trip by automobile, going with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mason to Monroe where they were met by Stockton friends.

Hadley Clark has sold his farm located at West Pittsfield to Charles Edwards of Unity, who will take possession in a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Condon will leave in a few days for Ocean Park where they will spend a week or more.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cargill will be interested to learn that the young daughter who recently arrived at their home has been named Geraldine.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bonney T. Ames will be interested to learn that they have this week purchased the John Murphy farm which, is situated on the Burnham road about three miles from the village. This farm is especially interesting to Mr. and Mrs. Ames on account of the fact that it originally belonged to Mrs. Ames' great grandmother. It is a small hillside farm and adjoins the Sebasticook river and will be especially adapted to small fruits, which will be the branch of farming Mr. and Mrs. Ames will engage in.

Changes in M. C. R. R. Rates Cancelled by I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, July 16. The proposed changes in class and commodity freight rates from points in Maine on the Maine Central Railroad to points in central freight association territory were found not justified today by the Interstate Commerce Commission and cancelled.

R. P. Mitchell Appointed.

Announcement is made that Ralph P. Mitchell of West Newfield has been appointed by Dean L. S. Merrill of the State college to have charge of the Boys Agricultural clubs throughout the State. This is an important work and its successful conduct will have a great bearing on the attitude of the boys of the coming generation to the work of agriculture.

Mr. Mitchell has had much experience in this line of work. He was the instructor in Agriculture at Kent's Hill for one year, and for several years now has been the principal of Freedom, Me., academy. In this latter place he conducted successfully a course in practical agriculture that became the topic of favorable comment of many instructors all over the State.

William Tell Flour

Makes Cakes Like This!

Light, tender, mouth-melting cake, the kind that you are proud to serve, whether it is just a cake you stirred up for the family or a splendid big rich one for the birthday party.

Wonderful for pastry, too, and just as good for biscuits, hot rolls and bread.

Goes farther—a help in household economy—because it is milled by a special process from Ohio Red Winter Wheat.

Your grocer will have it. Good grocers like to sell William Tell Flour

PEOPLE WITH THIN BLOOD

Some people have a tendency to become thin-blooded just as others have an inherited tendency to rheumatism, or to nervous disorders. The condition in which the blood becomes so thin that the whole body suffers comes on so gradually and stealthily that anyone with a natural disposition in that direction should watch the symptoms carefully. Bloodlessness, or anemia, as the medical term is, can be corrected much more easily in the earlier stages than later. It begins with a tired feeling that rest does not overcome, the complexion becomes pale, and breathlessness on slight exertion, such as going up stairs, is noticed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a home remedy that has been most successful in the treatment of diseases caused by thin blood. With pure air and wholesome food these blood-making pills afford the correct treatment when the symptoms described are noticed. A former sufferer from anemia says: "I was emaciated and did not have a particle of color. I had severe headaches, had no ambition and could just drag around." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills quickly restored appetite, flesh and health. A full statement of this case with directions regarding diet will be found in the booklet, "Building Up the Blood," sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE
